PRISONER ESCAPED From Crab Orchard Marshal By Hiding in Cemetery.

Dick Morgan, wanted in Laurel county, where he had skipped a $400 bond, was captured in Crab Orchard Tuesday by J. P. Jones, the efficient marshal of that city. The prisoner was given dinner by Mr. Jones at his home, after which the officer and his prisoner started to take the train for London. All went O. K., till by a sudden dash, Morgan dodged and ran and Mr. Jones fired after the running man, but with no results, only an increasing burst of speed. Dodging into the cemetery, where he easily found shelter and a hiding place behind the shrubbery and evergreens Morgan had no trouble in making good his escape.

APPALACHIAN EXPOSITION

HOG WALLOW NEWS

(From Hogwallow Kentuckian) Atlas Peek has received a new almanac from away off. The print, though, is so fine he has to get right down on the ground to read it.

A public singing will be held at the Dog Hill church Sunday night to raise money with which to build a jail at Bounding Billows. As we are all liable to get into jail sometime or another during the course of human events, this worthy cause should be patronized liberally.

Business in this section is getting better since the heavy rains and our creeks are running right and day.

Sidney Hocks is engaged this week in circulating a petition asking that the space between the bars in the Tickville jail be made much larger.

Little Fidelity Flinders has been swatting flies this week with the butter paddle.

Prof. Sap Spradlin has closed his school at Wild Onion & awaiting the failure of the pupils to attend, and has started out to look for another school. Before leaving he combed his hair back so that the trustees can see what a tall fellow he has.

Columbus Altissop set one of his nests a few days ago on thirteen eggs, but she grew superstitious and abandoned the nest until Columbus removed one of the eggs. It is disconcerting to note that in this late day of enlightenment we still have to tolerate superstition.

In his lecture on "Dogs" at Bayard Knob Monday night our worthy friend, Prof. Sap Spradlin, referred to several of our citizens in clearly understandable terms, but no one took offence, as they were merely used as illustrations.

Fit Smith sleeps a good deal in church with his hat on, but nothing will be said to him about it, as he is liberal when the hat is passed around.

A ladder has been stood against the postoffice, so that if anybody is on the roof when a fire breaks out they can come down.

Mrs. Walter Warren.

Good Advice. Rub elbows with the least of the world's people, if you would quicken your brain and soften your heart.
